Presentation

The Postgraduate Course in International Relations and Political and Economic Diplomacy is based on the competences and resources of the Faculty of Law and Political Science of Universidade Lusófona do Porto. It seeks to deepen the knowledge inherent in the areas of International Relations and Diplomacy and respond above all to the needs of the Lusophone Area. It is a postgraduate course in which training is geared towards in-depth and innovative knowledge in the areas of International Relations and Diplomacy, at national and international level. The proposed curricular programme directs studies towards the development of research into theoretical and practical issues and deepens the theoretical and practical knowledge of International Relations and Diplomacy needed to perform functions, mainly in national ministries, governmental and non-governmental organisations and private and public companies. It is intended that the knowledge acquired in this course will strengthen the in-depth qualification needed above all by professionals in political and economic diplomacy.
