Presentation

This postgraduate course is centred on training special education professionals and teachers to support children and students with Learning Support and Inclusion Measures. The course conceives of Inclusive Education as a fundamental right of all students, who must be welcomed and respected in their diversity, regardless of their condition. It is based on values such as social justice, respect for diversity and collaboration, as well as principles such as the common good and equal opportunities, which guide an equitable and inclusive education. It has a highly qualified teaching staff with an international calibre. With a duration of 6 months, the online and face-to-face classes combine pedagogical and technological innovation and make it possible to combine studies, work and personal life.
