Presentation

This degree has shown great academic dynamism, with immediate adhesion by a large number of enrolled students (Portuguese, but also students of Brazilian, Angolan and Cape Verdean origin). It offers an academic path that combines a stimulating theoretical-practical learning component based on Cinema and Video, with interdisciplinary training in the area of audiovisual and multimedia creation and technologies associated with new media. In constant updating, as required by the area, individual and team work is explored in practical projects in the areas of photography, video and short film, web creation, sound design, scriptwriting and directing actors, multimedia installations and video mapping. The course is responsible for Multiplex, Annual Cycle of Moving Images
